SUN BEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

While it is difficult to believe, we hear reports from over the state to the effect that the 30-Thursday issue will be a close contest and that the proponents are going to dig up every possible vote next Tuesday. If that is so then it behooves each and every one of us in this district to turn out next Tuesday and offset some of the vote for the disasterous proposition What ever else you plan for next Tuesday, be at the polls and cast your ballot, it will be needed then if ever.

We'll admit that we were one of scores who had our doubts about the Hallowe'en party keeping the boys and girls from disturbing the peace or causing damage, but we were wrong and the youngsters have given fine evidence that they are the best of good fellows and ready to cooperat at all times with their elders in such matters. We doff our hat to the boys and girls of Truckee. They are good sports and deserve a lot of credit, more credit in fact than we were willing to give them. To Verne Pearson, Rev. Keetch, Walt Ashton and others who worked so diligently to make the party such a success goes three cheers. Theirs was a big job but well done and worthy of highest praise

The one paramount fact disclosed Tuesday with the football game at Tahoe was that the boys in Truckee need more supervised physical training. That they are game to the last ditch cannot be denied. They have what champions are made from but without supervised athletic coaching and the necessary equipment, they are being deprived of some of the most important things in their young lives. It is high time that something was being done to correct this unfair and unnecessary neglect.

Hallowe'en Is Observed By 300 At Party

Even Slight Damage Avoided As Youngsters Meet For Party

COMMITTEE IS ACTIVE

Games, Festivities Featured At Auditorium On Holiday

Approximately 300 boys and girls, men and women gathered at the Truckee grammar school auditorium Tuesday night to participate in one of the biggest and most worthwhile party ever held here when a joint committee from the Rotary and Lions clubs, headed by Verne Pearson and Rev. J. G. E. Keetch provided a solid evening of fun for all attending.

Probably the highest tribute to be paid the party was the often repeated remark by local men that: "I didn't believe it was possible to prevent at least a minor degree of damage by giving a party."

Not so much as one window was soap marked and the only mischief reported was near the high school and it was well established that the disturbance there was not caused by local pranksters.

Games of all sorts—from usually dignified business men chasing peanuts across the room wth their noses to a mad scramble for the greased pig—were presented and prizes were awarded in each instance.

The credit for the outstanding success goes not alone to Pearson and Keetch and their adult aides, but to the boys and girls themselves. So enthusiastic over the prospects were the yougsters tht they would not permit even a slight confusion of any damage whatever to property either before or after the party. On this "honor committee" were Keeth Weeden, Harry Digesti, Jewell Hudson, Kenneth Foster, Raymond Sabini, George Kamp, A. Esola, Luke Sassarini, Sam Costa, Dave Bolender, and associate members Sharyek Foster, Otis, Wayne and Duke Freeman.

While Pearson ably managed the busy program which kept things on the move constantly, the committee had actual charge of the affair and the credit should be shared.

" We wish to thank the merchants of Truckee for their financial aid and the boy and girl companions in helping us put over the Hallowe'en party. The condition of the town shows how cooperation can put things over," the committee said.

That the party will be put on at even a bigger and better scale next year has been assured.

Foul Play Feared as King's Beach Man Missing Two Weeks

LOST TRUCK LOCATED

Charles Wilson Being Sought By Police Over State

Apprehension for the safety of Charles Wilson, 57, driver for the Kings Beach Trucking Company was felt by his wife and family as well as his employer, Tom Doherty today as the second week of his mysterious disappearance drew to a close with a word from the missing man

Wilson, a trusted employee, had been in the Sacramento district where he collected between $400 and $600 for Doherty. He left his home near Folsom October 23 with the truck which was found several days later on a Sacramento street sans driver.

Two hats on the seat of the car led investigators to believe that the driver may have met with foul play. He was a man of good habits and the belief he had abscounded with the money were discounted by Doherty.

Police have sent out a belated bulletin to all points in hopes of locating the missing Wilson.

REVELATION

Roy G. Owens, considered the leading candidate of the two nominees for mandatory appointment as Administrator of the Ham and Eggs act, is reluctant to eleaborate on his business experience or dwell os the success of enterprises with which he has been associated in the past under direct questioning.

His qualifications, as outl.ned in a public statement which he made, should be a warning to the thinking voter.

Said Mr. Owens: "They say we've never been the head of a bank—and we haven't. They say we've never been head of a big corporation—and we haven't. They say we were on WPA—and we were. They say we've never handled large sums of money and we haven't. But we're going to handle them, and you can tell that to your banker. They say that this tax is a subterfuge to drive bankers' money out of the market—and it is. They call us crack-pots — and we are! We're going to crack their pots wide open."

A startling disclosure to be made by a man who has ambitions to administer a pension plan involving a million people and who would control a statewide banking system. The administrator of the act, under its provisions, would be entrusted also with the sale of $20,000,000 in state bonds and the sale of $50,000,000 in bank stock. All state and local governmnet revenues must be deposited in the Credit Clearings Bank, which the administrator dominates through a hand-picked and controlled board of directors.

WEALTH INTO SMOKE

Too much of California's wealth has gone up in smoke this year.

A brief accounting of this loss, as submitted by S. B. Show, Federal forester, reveals that a total of 600,000 acres of California's forest lands have been destroyed by fire this season. This, be it noted, is the worst record of forest fire losses in fifteen years.

Who will pay for these millions of dollars of resources destroyed? Californai alone! The damage will be paid for in reduced tourit travel through these areas, and in the losses which will be borne by livestock grazing, by the lumber enterprises, and by communities and farmlands threatened with floods by the absence of protective watersheds.

Millions of dollars damage to our natural resources means millions in reparations.

PRESIDENTIAL CALM

Even the most casual observer of national events must wonder a little at the "news" outbursts from the White Housee. Submarines off the coast, liners about to be sunk.

Seriously, we wonder what's going on?

Is the country enmeshed by schools of foriegn—and therefore belligerent—submarines? Are American ships about to be sunk without warn.ng? Is there a potential naval battle just out of sight of shore? What's going on anyway?

Well might Mr. American Citizen ask.

When his President sits in the White House and, every day or two gives out information to the newsmen such as that on September 29, when he reported "unverified" reports of submarines of unknown origin off our coast; on October 3 when he agin referred to "mysterious submarines" and warned Americans against aiding them; on October 5, when he gave out the altogether amazing story of the message form the German Admiralty forecasting the sinking of the steamer Iroquois, and again on October 7 when he reported another submarine "of unknown nationality" sighted off Miami, is it any wonder that one asks if the President isn't just bit hysterical about the whole thing.

Such reports as those now being given page one publicity only serve ta keep things in an uproar, when in reality they should go virtually unnoticed if they were released through normal channels. Any Washington newspaperman will tell you that such reports usually come from the Navy Department, or perhaps the Coast Guard.

The White House and the lips of the President should never serve as a sling-shot for such inflammatory tidbits of war times. But could it be that the Whte House would like to scare the country into passing his neutrality bill?

California Special Election News

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 2 —(UP)— Fred A. Weller, assistant corporation commissioner, declared today that regulation of loan sharks and the curbing of fantastic interest rates charged small loan borrowers will be almost an impossibility without passage of the small loan bills—Nos. 3 and 4 on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Weller said that "by the strictest interpretation of existing laws" the division of corporations has succeeded in eliminating temporarily some of the more flagrant abuses of high rate lenders, but he declared these gains will be erased if the propositions are not approved should the courts not sustain the division's action.

About 15 per cent of the $80.000 spent for "Ham and Eggs" pension plan radio publicity during the eighteen months preceding last November's election went to Willis Allen's Cinema Advertising Company as commissions, Allen has testified.

Allen is one of the founders and the campaign director for the plan which was defeated at the polls last fall and will be voted upon again this coming week.

Allen testifed at the trial of the $3,439 wage claim suit filed by former employees at pension headquarters. He said his advertising concern booked all the pension movement's radic progrmas and received more than $11,000 in commissions.

The nine wage claimants, all women stenographers, contend they were induced to work for very low wages on Allen's representations that everyone was receiving only expenses.

Accusing proponents of the Atkinson oil control bill, which will appear as Proposition 5 on the Nov. 7 ballot, of resorting to trickery and deception in an effort to obtain popular support for the measure, Lieut. Gov. Ellis E Pattterson last week had taken to the platform in opposition to the issue.

As a leader of the Democratic party, Mr. Patterson appealed to his partisans to work for the defeat of the "ruthless exploitation of our natural resources by great corporate interests and monopolistic combines."

Failure of California to adopt the Atkinson oil control act on Nov. 7 will mean Federal control of the state's oil resources.

This was the statement made by President Roosevelt in his most recent press conference.

During his conference, the President told newsmen that he had endorsed the measure an added that he thought that the bill would help establish a desirable general principle which is to take care of oil production regulation through the method of state compacts.

He pointed out that the only alternative to the state compact was Federal control, which he held is undesirable.

EARLY HISTORY OF TRUCKEE AS FOUND IN EDWARD'S TOURIST GUIDE AND DIRECTORY OF THE TRUCKEE BASIN

Following is another in the series of articles on the early history of Truckee as taken from Edward's Tourist Guide and Directory of the Truckee Basin.

In '63 when the Dutch Flat and Donner Lake route was being constructed across the mountains, Joseph Gray, now familiarly termed "Uncle Joe Gray" moved here and built a log house near what is now known as the corner of Bridge and Church streets. In '64 J. McConnell settled on the site now occupied by the Truckee Lumber Company's store. A shooting scrape occurred as a consecuence, the particulars of which are related elsewhere.

As early as 1864, the surveying corps of the Central Pacific Railroad came through, and were followed at once by graders, and active work began on construction of the road. A wagon road was first laid out and completed on which to bring supplies proper for building the railroad, and all the material for the road was brought on wagon trains from Cisco the then base of supples, a distance of twenty-one miles.

The first locomotive was brought piece-meal on sleighs, George Schaffer having the contract, which he executed in good sahpe. The engine which was named "San Mateo" was put together on the eastern end of what is known as the plaza, and for many years did good service on the C. P. Railroad. Large numbers of Chinamen were engaged in the construction work; one of the first and largest contracting firms for this kind of labor being Sisson, Egbert and Co., the firm still existing to the present day under the name of Sisson, Crocker and Co.

With the advent of the railroad, came the change in the name for the thriving village, and what up to that time had been known as Coburn station became Truckee, named after the beautiful little river on the banks of which was to grow a town that should hand the name down for generations to come, as the hub of a wheel of the most interesting localities that history can write of, poets picture, or artists dream. From this time on the town grew and flourished. Houses went up so fast one could scarcely count them, and no village was ever so prosperous.

Two theaters were built, one the Magnolia, owned by a party named Friedman ,and run and operated by a man name Beatty. The Pixley sisters were the favorite stellar attractions in those days at this place, and receipts were hundreds of dollars nightly. The other theater was known as the Union and was built by Budd Smith and James Sweeney. Saloons, dance houses, gambling houses and all species flourished apace. Rents were enormous, one saloon paying a rental of $500 a month. Money was plenty and wihle it brought here desperados of all kinds and degrees, still was a show of law and order was maintained.

BEN ALI BAND WILL TAKE PART IN BIG FOOTBALL CONTEST

For the third year Sacramento Ben Ali Shrine band of 100 pieces will take part in the annual intersectional football game sponsored by the Sacramento Elks lodge.

This year, on December 3rd, the band will represent Creighton University of Omaha when they play football against University of San Francisco in the Sacrmaento stadium.

The Shrine band represented Gonzaga in 1937 when that team played Santa Clara and they also played for the Detroit University Titans in 1938 when the Detroiters upset the Broncs of Santa Clara.

Teams Evenly Matched

Creighton and U.S.F. have evenly matched squads, according to midwest and coast football scribes and the December game in Sacramento promises plenty of thrills.

Tickets may be obtained from Elks lodges in northern California cities or from the Creighton-USF headquarters, fourth floor, Elks Temple, Sacramento. Seats between the two 20-yard lines sell for $1.65 and the remaining seats in the stadium are $1.10. Reservations may be made immediately.

100 GUESTS ATTEND HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT TAHOE HALL

TAHOE CITY, Nov. 2.— Close to 100 persons attended the gala Hallowe'en party and dinner held at the local auditorium Thursday evening. Three long tables were filled to capacity with the menu consisting of tasty salads, spaghetti, cider, buns, coffee and home made cakes. The school children made the containers for buttered popcorn at each place, pumpkins forming the motif.

Several amusing stunts and games enlivened the evening. In the cracker eating contest won by William Wathen of Emerald Bay, various areas were represented with Tejas Edwards of Lake Forest; Floyd Carnell of Tahoe City; Charles Heller of Meeks Bay; C. H. Tollefson of Big Chief and Ernest Pomin of Tahoe Pines. Community singing was also enjoyed.

EUROPEAN WAR SEEN AS POSITVE INFLUENCE ON HORSE AND MULE MARKET

DAVIS, Nov. 2 —(UP)— The European war probably will cause a boom in the market for horses and mules in the United States, according to George A. Bell, of the state college of agriculture.

Bell, a former maor in the army reserve, recalled that these animals were in great demand during the last war and said there are already signs of interest in purchases for the current conflict.

Despite the spectacular victories achieved by mechanized units in Poland, Bell pointed out that horses and mules can be used in rough country where motorized equipment cannot operate.

GOOD LIGHTING PREVENTS THIS IN YOUR BRIDGE HAND

EVER get a spade mixed with your clubs? It won't happen if you have enough light on the bridge table. For it's a scientific fact that good lighting automatically draws your attention to such mistakes.

And good lighting does another thing to your bridge game. By making it easier for you and your guests to see the cards, it relieves the strain—puts new pep into the party. Psychologists have proved that good lighting is stimulating even for tasks which do not require close, prolonged eye-use. 75 or 100-watt MAZDA lamps in good fixtures and reading lamps will give you hours of seeing comfort while you read, sew or study.
